With the active involvement of CLIA Europe, MedCruise and cruise lines operating in the Mediterranean, the Posidonia Sea Tourism Forum has become the most important business platform for stakeholders in the East Med. The dynamic participation of high level decision makers of the yachting and marina industries further enhances the event. The Forum's high profile also generates ample opportunities for national and regional government authorities to interact with members of the sea tourism industry and discuss the challenges ahead.

The Conference

At the East Med's dedicated event, key speakers from the world's leading Cruise and Yachting Industries will be joining the Conference Panels to put forward their views on the present and future of Sea Tourism in this region.

Cruise topics to be discussed include current Global Deployment Trends and the challenges facing the East Mediterranean. Additionally, discussions will include the importance of Berth Allocation, New Destinations, Emerging Markets and Cruise Sales, Shore Excursions and Land Experiences, among others.

During the Yachting Sessions, speakers will address the privatisation process and investment opportunities in Marina Infrastructure and Management, Yacht Building and Repair Services, High Profile Yacht Racing in the Aegean Sea and much more.

Recent developments in the region, such as port privatisations and new port developments, the privatisation of regional airports and their impact on the region's homeporting potential, the launch of a sea plane service and its collateral benefits for the sea tourism industry, will also be tabled at the Forum.

The successful B2B Meetings will once again feature in the 2-Day Programme, as will the importance of Coastal and Inter-Island Passenger Shipping for the local economies.

The Exhibition

Ports & Marinas, Cities & Destinations, Suppliers and Service Providers have a unique opportunity to showcase their features and products to cruise line representatives attending the Forum. An integral part of the 2017 Exhibition will be networking possibilities and joint marketing solutions.
